– it's us with the bus...

Stacy's Story
Why the yellow bus?

The yellow bus is from 1993 and started as a school bus in California where it has driven thousands of school aged children to and from school.

A Polish American living in California was set to return to Poland, more specifically Gdansk. He was dreaming of using the yellow school bus for special events, thus, he imported the bus upon his return.

After some years, he put the bus up for sale coinciding with us getting the crazy idea of finding a yellow school bus and splitting it in two.

The bus begins its journey from Gdansk to Denmark, driving for 2 days. This explains its Polish license plate and emergency signs.
Finally being on Danish soil, the preparations for splitting it in two, transforming it and attaching it to our building can begin.

The project grows bigger than anticipated. The easy part was saying:
"Let's just take a yellow school bus, split it in 2 and attach it to our building – how hard can that be?" Linné
"You are nuts, that is not possible!" Martin
But of course you can! And after 1.000 hours of hard work and many sleepless nights, the bus was a part of the building.

Fun facts

Larry, our license plate pusher in Illionois, has sent about 5.000 license plates to Stacy's so far. A keen eye will discover one of our toilets is dedicated to him – Thanks Larry
P.S. We know one license plate Is turned upside down
– it's only because we can 😉

Welcome to a world where crazy ideas become a reality.

The legend of Route 66

Route 66 was the first and biggest highway through 8 states in America.

It served as a primary route for those who migrated west, but also as a means of commuting to and from work. Thus, it was the ideal location for diners as the route supported the hard working and hungry population in need of a solid, affordable meal.
Despite bigger and better highways and freeways since then, route 66 remains a symbol of a united America, with lots of diners, worth a visit.
